

BIO: CAPTAIN KASNER W. ALDENS:

Captain Kasner W. Aldens is a distinguished law enforcement leader with over 20 years of dedicated service in the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) National Police. As the current Captain in charge of the Criminal Investigation Unit (CIU) since 2017, he plays a pivotal role in leading high-profile investigations and managing critical operations that ensure law and order across the FSM.

In his current role, Captain Aldens is entrusted with a broad range of responsibilities. He is tasked with enforcing FSM National laws, protecting national interests, and maintaining public safety. Beyond his operational duties, he serves as a trusted advisor to the Chief of Police, providing strategic insights on operational and management challenges that impact the police force's ability to deliver effective services. He regularly briefs the Chief of Police on emerging crime trends and developments, while building strong relationships with government officials and key stakeholders to ensure collaborative, efficient policing.

Captain Aldens is a respected Fingerprint Specialist and a certified expert in various aspects of forensic science and criminal investigations. His impressive array of qualifications includes certifications in Forensic Science, Disaster Risk Management, Digital Forensics, Maritime Crime Investigation, and Aircraft Investigation Techniques, all of which reflect his continuous commitment to professional development. He has also completed specialized leadership training, further strengthening his capacity to lead in complex, dynamic environments.

His extensive professional development has been complemented by his roles in shaping policing strategies and policies both within the FSM and regionally. Captain Aldens has been an active participant in various Pacific policing initiatives, contributing to projects aimed at strengthening law enforcement capabilities in the region. His leadership extends to his role as an advocate for ongoing training and development for the next generation of law enforcement professionals.

Having graduated from the FSM Police Academy in 2007, Captain Aldens' journey in policing has been defined by a passion for service, excellence, and a dedication to ensuring the safety and security of the people of the FSM. His contributions, both operational and strategic, make him a key figure in the ongoing evolution of law enforcement in the Pacific. Captain Aldens' career embodies the values of integrity, innovation, and a steadfast commitment to protecting and serving his community, while also advancing the broader policing objectives of the FSM and the Pacific region. His leadership and dedication continue to inspire both his peers and the future leaders of law enforcement.
